First Citizens Community Bank to Open Loan Production Office in Lancaster County

MANSFIELD, PA (August 2017) First Citizens has announced the opening of a new loan production office in Lancaster county. Pending regulatory approval, the Bank will offer business and agricultural loans from the office located at 2403 Main Street, Narvon, PA. The office is expected to open in November, 2017.

Two of First Citizens current employees, Jeffrey Bollinger and Jamie Frees will service this loan production office.

Bollinger has over 19 years' experience in Agricultural and commercial lending in the Lancaster and Lebanon markets. Frees brings 24 years' of banking experience, most recently as a Commercial Lender for Ephrata National Bank.

“Our strategic plan involves looking for ways in which we can further serve the Agricultural community, which is a key strategic initiative for First Citizens,” commented Randall E. Black, CEO and President. “Our expansion strategy for Agriculture involves many tactics, including bringing our expertise closer to the farmer. We believe we have the right people in place to successfully serve Narvon and the surrounding areas.”

In 2015, First Citizens acquired The First National Bank of Fredericksburg, expanding their footprint into the southern part of Pennsylvania. The addition of highly experienced commercial and Ag lenders quickly followed, and the bank opened their first office in Lancaster County located in Mount Joy.

The First Citizens Community Bank headquarters is located in Mansfield, Pennsylvania. They currently operate 26 offices throughout Pennsylvania and New York, serving Allegany, Tioga, Bradford, Potter, Clinton, Berks, Lebanon, Lancaster and Union counties.
